

Dear Members of Aquathin Europe;

I have heard from several of you over the years (especially from our friend Dr. Jean Marie Danze), that local water officials offer harsh criticism of water treatment dealers and citing perfect compliance with municipal water regulations.

I would respectfully urge you to reprint this article for your prospective Customers interested in THE TRUTH.

Special Note: Where you have Customers interested in removal of arsenic but unable to afford the Patented Aquathin RODI Process, prescribe the LeadOut. Refer to removal specifications in your Master Catalogue of recorded testings.

Warmest regards to all,

EU Commission threatens fines over water pollution

Reuters, 01.13.04, 9:32 AM ET

BRUSSELS, Jan 13 (Reuters) - The European Commission threatened on Tuesday to fine Greece, the Netherlands and Belgium if they did not comply with EU water quality rules.

The EU executive Commission has taken the three states to the European Court of Justice for their failure to meet EU requirements on limiting water pollution.

"It's the second stage of legal action which could result in fines if the problem is not resolved," Environment Commission spokeswoman Ewa Hedlund told a news conference.

Both Athens and the Hague have failed to put a proper programme in place to reduce the presence of dangerous substances such as arsenic in water.

Meanwhile, Belgium has not fully implemented EU laws on drinking water quality.

The Commission has started legal action against Portugal and France and is threatening to take a further three states -- Ireland, Spain and Germany -- to court in Luxembourg for flouting a host of water quality laws.
